Writer and Public Affairs Director Jeff Bliss responds in part:

Mr. Yankovic is among Cal Poly's most visible alumni, with a worldwide audience totaling in the millions. He is certainly part of popular culture, but one of the things that sets him apart from other artists and musicians is that he cleverly satirizes their work. With regards to the hands-on approach to learning, I believe Mr. Yankovic serves as another Cal Poly "learn-by-doing" success story. A musician prior to enrolling at the university, he was able to parlay his talents with skills he learned working at Cal Poly's radio station, KCPR.

A differing reader response to the same story follows:

Your article about Al Yankovic (I just can't call him "Weird") came at a great time. I have kids 12 and 8, and they love Al's [Disney radio album] parodies. You gave me a walk down memory lane and my kids are impressed. Keep up the good work on the magazine. I enjoy hearing what is happening at Cal Poly and seeing what the graduates are doing.
